AUGUST 1, 2026 - FEBRUARY 14, 2027

Ogden Museum of Southern Art launched Louisiana Contemporary, presented by The Helis Foundation, in 2012 as an annual juried exhibition celebrating artists living in Louisiana and showcasing the vitality of artistic practice across the state. Now marking its 15th anniversary, the exhibition has featured work by more than 650 artists since its inception, establishing Louisiana Contemporary as a significant moment on the national arts calendar that recognizes and celebrates the breadth of creative voices emerging from New Orleans and arts communities throughout Louisiana.

Juror Sarah Jones, Lulu C. and Anthony W. Wang Head of Live Arts at The Metropolitan Museum of Art, has selected 50 works by 45 artists from over 1,786 submissions.

Currently, Pam Skehan's paintings, "Woman in Waiting" and "Tipping Point" can be viewed at Wine Art Gallery.

Wine Art Gallery- The goal of Wine Art Gallery is to give back to emerging artists while honoring the unique and storied history of the Great City of New Orleans. Wine Art Gallery works very hard to find new local talent. What makes The Gallery different is the constant search for new international artists as well as its effort to give a voice to those who may not otherwise have one. Over 80% of our Artists are Female and Underrepresented Artists. Wine Art Gallery is a diverse mixture of local artists, British artists, French artists, and Spanish artists. Wine Art Gallery is very proud to coexist with many galleries on Gallery Row in The Arts District of New Orleans. Anchored by 2 Michelin Star restaurants; Emerils and Peche, Julia Street is the perfect location for the cultural melting pot of galleries and artists represented by the Wine Art Gallery.
